CORRIGAN HERE!

Boston's Right Hand Welcomes 'Wrong-Way'

Million Roar Welcome To Wrong-Way Corrigan

Doug Corrigan — the fellow every kid in America would like to be — was taken to Boston's heart today.

More than 1,000,000 cheering, shouting admirers roared a tumultuous greeting to the doughty little flier.

Riding through East Boston, Chelsea, Charlestown and down town Boston, with Governor Hurley and Mayor Tobin, Corrigan received one of the greatest welcomes ever tendered a public hero in New England.

At East Boston airport, a wildly enthusiastic crowd of 15,000 broke through police lines and stormed the big skyliner which brought him here from New York.

Corrigan waved a deonair hello as he appeared on the gangplank leading to the cabin door of the plane.

WAVES CROWD BACK.

His characteristic grin looked just a trifle weary, but he soon warmed to the enthusiasm of the reception accorded him.

Apparently worried for fear the crowd would tear the American Airlines ship apart for souvenirs, Corrigan motioned its front ranks back.

Between the governor and the mayor, who met him at the foot of the gangplank, the leather-jacketed, bareheaded hero of the occasion seemed boyishly small of stature.

His official hosts escorted him to an improvised speakers' platform.

There he acknowledged the crowd's roaring applause again.

A young man of deeds, not of words, he attempted no oratory.

MAKES BRIEF SPEECH

But his simply-phrased little speech of thanks for his welcome was received with renewed cheers.

A short-wave radio hookup flashed what he said—and descriptions of the scene—all over the United States and to England and Ireland.

Eager as the rest of Boston was to see and greet the "wrong way," New York-Dublin flyer, those in charge of his itinerary took "time out" for him to eat lunch at the airport.

When he "started for California" and landed in Ireland, he got along on "40 winks and a chocolate bar."

His program today had more

East or West, He's Here

Women and children predominated in the huge throng which assembled at the East Boston airport to welcome the intrepid airman. In holiday mood and carrying lunch baskets, they arrived afoot and by automobile several hours before he landed on the field.

Sightseeing airplanes did a rush business at the East Boston airport with spectators who had gathered to see Corrigan land.

A namesake of the redoubtable flier turned up at East Boston in the person of Douglas Corrigan, Jr., of Belmont. He went aloft in a plane to join the flying flotilla which welcomed the visitor as he arrived from New York.

First sight to confront "One Way" as he stepped from the flagship was 50 cameramen, 25 reporters and two cars with movie-men.

As he was propelled through the crowds to the car where Governor Hurley and Mayor Tobin awaited him, hundreds fought to snap him with candid cameras.

Chelsea square took on the appearance of a Dublin holiday as Corrigan arrived to receive a welcome from Mayor Edward J. Voke. The colors of Eire broke out from all flagpoles in the vicinity and hundreds of spectators sported the traditional green. Mayor Voke presented Corrigan with a $250 ship's clock, gift of Chelsea citizens. The mayor's 13-year-old daughter, Julia, draped a floral wreath round Corrigan's neck.

Acting Superintendent of Police John M. Anderson rode over the parade route in advance of the official party to see that all streets were clear. By two-way radio he called motor cars to clear up jams at intersections. All day police were on duty, with all available special duty men called.

Seven East Boston youngsters, boys and girls, entertained the crowd shortly before Corrigan's arrival. The yblared, tustily, on well-polished (but dented) trombones, "Irish songs by request."

The crowd chanted, then roared, "Corrigan, that's me!" accompanied by the American Legion band. The ysang to the old Irish tune of "Harrigan, That's Me!"

The sky over the airport was a rainbow of planes flashing in the bright sun. They dipped and swerved above the flagship Newark as it circled the landing field.

Paul Trial Inside Story Told Jury

By JOHN BRADFORD MAIN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 8—Francis M. Carroll, then deputy sheriff, threatened the life of Paul N. Dwyer and that of his mother unless Dwyer pleaded guilty to the slaying of Dr. James G. Littlefield, it was testified today at the Carroll trial.

With Barbara Carroll, 17-year-old high school sweetheart of Paul, listening in the courtroom, where the younger set predominated, E. Walker Abbott, counsel for Paul in his trial several months ago, said Dwyer told him of the alleged threat.

Paul also told Abbott, the lawyer testified, that Carroll was "the real murderer."

EXPLAINS GUILTY PLEA

The lawyer admitted that he allowed the 19-year-old youth, now serving life imprisonment as the result of that plea, to plead guilty because "I thought it was the only thing to do at that time."

Sheriff Fernando F. Francis, first witness at opening of the second week of the trial and continuing his testimony from Saturday, testified that Carroll's gun was missing from its usual place in the sheriff's office on the night

It's Corrigan Day in Boston

AND HERE'S CORRIGAN—Flanked by Governor Hurley and Mayor Tobin, Doug (Non-Stop) Corrigan steps blithely off into a round of sightseeing and being sight seen in Boston. And he soared to Boston's heart as straight as he soared to Dublin.

Corrigan' Lake Chat On Air Ride to Hub

By AUSTEN LAKE
Boston American Staff Correspondent Who Flew from Newark to Boston with Corrigan

Douglas Corrigan flew over Boston today for the second time within a month. This time he stopped—a garlanded, lionized hero in leather jerkin and homespun who was buffetted by hysterical thousands at the East Boston airport, where an impromptu greeting was staged before taking him on a triumphal tour under a snowfall of torn telephone directories and ticker tape.

Corrigan, with his business adviser, Ed Bern of the American Airlines, came up from Newark on the 11:30 flagship.

He spent much of his time with Pilots Walter Hughen and Warren Ashley in the control room. He was mobbed in Newark by several hundred mechanics and airport employes, who implored his signature.

To save his injjured ribs, sheathed thickly with surgeon's tape after the buffeting of New York's mobs, he was stationed in the door of the flagship, guarded by police and the ropes of the gangplank.

TOUCH OF IRELAND

Later on the way to Boston he held a chummy court for a half-hour in the passenger compartment, where casual travelers intermingled with the official party, composed of City Greeter Lou Brems, Bern and several reporters. It was soupy outside, and 600 feet up a layer of clouds lay like the top of a meringue pie.

"Just about as much of this country as I saw when I made my mistake," said Corrigan in a high, lilting voice that, for all his Texas heritage, carried a touch of the Irish pipes.

He still wore his leather windbreak, which was part of his wardrobe when he landed his aerial hencoop in Dublin last July 18 and which, shrewdly, he clings to now. The suede jacket bespeaks Corrigan as much as Hitler's mustache, Al Smith's brown derby and John L. Lewis' fiddler's haircut symbolized their personalities. The only thing that was missing was his flying chicken coop, the antique but not antiquated bus which ferried him safely across the Atlantic.

HOW BOSTON LOOKED

"Did you see much of the Boston lights on your Irish flight?" I asked after the back of the plane seat.

Impulsively he arose, like an impulsive boy—the better to hear.

"Oh yeas," he singsonged, "that was the town I seen through a hole and thought it was Baltimore," he grinned.

It was a tilted grin and there was Irish at the corners of that, too. He laughed a continual "heh-heh" fat gurgled like brook water when he talked, kind of sucking sigh that seemed to pass through his teeth not from embarrassment but because his humour is close under the surface.

Then he added as a corollary, "I started a new society in Dublin—they call itthe ancient and original Corrigans. Heh—heh. You've gotta be a Corrigan."

He showed me the contents of his luggage—one red pasteboard shirt box an da cheap canvas shopping bag, about six pounds in all. The box, he said, contained letters and telegrams, some of them offers from theaters, movies, radio, advertisers, which he had not yet had time to consider. The bag contained a white cotton shirt, a dollar razor, a spare necktie and two pairs of socks. Money?

NEEDS NO MONEY

"Heh-heh, I haven't needed any yet," he giggled.

He was hatless and wore his hair in a copperish tangle, running his finger through it continually. He is slight of build, little larger than a horse jockey.

"I guess," he said, with a quizzical peep of his brown eyes, "I'm the only Irishman in America who hasn't a relative in Boston."

John? "Ah, lots of offers but . . ." he hunched his shoulder with a quick lift of the palms.

Yet Douglas Corrigan knows what he's going to do. It's already well defined. He's under agreement to an airline and will shortly start on a transcontinental tour, some of the way in his own ship, which is being reassembled today at Roosevelt Field, and part of the time in the big transports, one of which he was riding for the first time in his 31-year-old life in this voyage to Boston.

Did he like this business of being toasted about as a national treasure and public chum.

"Wouldn't you?" he answered logically, "Wouldn't any kid who's been a nobody from nowhere all his life? Why, I never got turkey till the other night except on Christmas. Heh-heh."

Te studied the glistening metal surface of the big transport and recalled that the Irish line on which he had traveled used all-fabric planes.

"Boy this is a sky palace, ain't it."

There was nothing constrained none o fthe I-am about his manner. eH reacted like a normal unspoiled youth who was seeing, miraculously, high-jinks and living like a male Alice-in-Wonderland.

He spilled out his pockets — a few coins and a bill or two, keys, a few gadgets such as any mechanical-minded youth might save.

"They've been givin' me stuff all the way from Ireland," he said. "Ah, keepsakes and trinkets . . . and, her-her, compasses." He said he had four compasses now.

And always with dry seriousness on his face he stuck to his reverse-English story of his Irish trip.

"It was a surprise," he agreed. "I just tilted the old ship over, looked down and said, 'Well, this looks like Ireland!' And darned if it wasn't!"

The passengers in the plane deserted their chairs, contrary to the usual regulations of the air, and gathered about Corrigan much as a family might huddle about a fireplace.

There were no introductions and everyone, even a little gray-haired, motherly lady, joined in the general hilarity. And before he went forward to inspect the control room Douglas filled out a flight blank and added the pencilled observation. "Douglas Corrigan aboard the ship 'Newark' flying 'East'." He knew his bearings this time.

By special dispensation of the Federal air commission, ibtained last evening, he had obtained permission to hob-nob with the pilots during flight. And, for the last half of the flight, he was locked in to inspect and ask questions about the latest instruments on he giant panal things which he knev and things which were new.

Stewardess Mary Robinson, the Conway, N. H., girl who was hostess of the flight, buzzed about excitedly, admittedly stirred by the proximity of this young man of the moment. She, with the rest, drank in his every wor until it was time to lock the company in their safty belts as the ship soared over the airport and circled twice before nosing down.

Corigan was barricaded in the pilot room for safety lest the impetuous crowd rush the plane. Below people lined the street, gaping upward; cowds that made a fringe along the arteries leading to the airport. Below in the mob that was restained by police a band appeared to be playing soundless music in time to their leader's pumping arms.

And presently the plane jolting gently to earth and lumbered along the ground to a stop before the little scaffold with its electric amplifying horns and Corrigan thrust his coppery thatch from the pilot's cabin windows, twiddling his fingers in a cheerful, boyish flourish and grinning his slanting warped smile. He stayed there while the police battled the pressing horde, finally making a narrow lane through which he passed to meet Mayor Tobin in resplendent ice-cream whites and the governor in somble business gray.

Greeter Lou Brems spoke a little piece and then Corrigan's piping tenor spoke some little words which he has learned to keep on the tip of his tongue for such occasions.

Frank Reilly's Mother Dead

Funeral services for Mrs. Eleanor M. Reilly, 56, mother of Frank Reilly, City Hall reporter for the Hearst newspapers in Boston, will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. with a solemn high mass of requiem in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross. She died at her home, 69 East Brookline street, South End, following a long illness.

Mrs. Reilly, widow of the late Timothy M. Reilly, was born in Iowa and had lived in Boston for 40 years.

Besides her son, Frank, she leaves two other sons and eight grandchildren.

Guard Speeds to Crippled Ship

The coast guard cutter Chelan today is speeding to the aid of the Boston fishing trawler Adventurer, reported in distress 10 miles east of Highland Light.

Earlier, the rescue crew at Hull pulled the trawler Hopewell off the rocks at Point Allerton where it had run aground during the night in a hazy fog.

The Chelan was dispatched out of Boston after a wireless message from the American Export Line's steamship American Trader told of the Adventurer drifting dangerously near the transatlantic traffic lane.

UAW Group Fights Ouster

DETROIT, Aug. 8 (AP)—The expulsion of four high officers of the United Automobile Workers of America and the suspension of a fifth failed to restore harmony today in the strife-torn CIO union.

The four former officers said in a statement they would seek a special convention of the UAW and appeal to the rank and file "to decide about the real enemies of the union."

The union's executive board expelled Vice-Presidents Richard T. Frankensteen, Ed Hall and Wyndham Mortimer Saturday night. A month ago today it expelled George F. Addes as secretary-treasurer.

food on it—but not much more rest!

It wasn't long before he was on his way to Boston Common along the circuitous parade route planned for him.

He sat in an open auto, wearing almost the same clothes he had on when he arrived in Dublin.

More than 500 Boston and Chelsea police had their work cut out for them keeping passsageways clear in East Boston, Chelsea and Charlestown squares where Corrigan parade stops were scheduled.

BOYS, GIRLS CHEER

In the eager, excited throngs waiting all along the Corrigan triumph-route, young people were conspicuous.

There were tens of thousands of boys and girls to whom Charles Lindbergh was just a legend, his exploit of 11 years ago merely ancient history.

But to the youngsters, grinning, debonair "Doug" Corrigan, with his Texas drawl and his Irish blue eyes, was a hero made to order for the spirit of these times.

They waited for him today, sure they'd see in him the spirit of 1938 U. S. youth, itself.

"'Non-Stop" Corrigan!"
"East-Is-West" Corrigan!
"Incorrigible" Corrigan!

The kid from Texas who broke all the fuddy-duddy rules and made the rule-makers like it!

Doug Corrigan, the 100 per cent Yank, with Irish forebears, Irish humor and an Irish thumb-to-the-nose at danger!

No wonder the kids of Boston were all set to love Corrigan today—and all set to accept him as the kind of a guy they'd like to be.

Grownups were out in force, too, to welcome Corrigan.

"Corrigan Day" was practically a half-holiday, so far as Boston and Chelsea business firms and city departments were concerned.

Skeleton staffs were all that were kept in most offices in the districts through which the flyer hero was to pass.

Last time Corrigan was in Boston, he was unknown and broke.

He was travelling in a ramshackle flivver.

GREETED BY OFFICIALS

Today the mayor of the city met him and was proud to ride beside him.

Governor Hurley put aside all business of the Commonwealth to be ready to receive him.

Doug was brought here as feted, idolized and pampered No. 1 passenger aboard the luxurious flagship skyliner of a crack New York-Boston air route.

American Airlines' prettiest stewardess, Mary Betty Robinson of North Conway, N. H., was assigned to watch out for Corrigan's comfort during the one-hour flight.

Before the big plane left Newark, its star passenger gave detailed instructions for the unpacking and assembling of his own dismantled $900 "jalopy," brought to New York today by the S. S. Lehigh.

Close acquaintances of Corrigan were breathing relieved sighs over the fact that the "crate" wasn't already put together and ready to fly.

They had a hunch "Non-Stop" Doug might be his own pilot and use his own ship, on the Boston trip, if circumstances made it possible.

Instead, fortunately, he flew in state as a passenger. American Airlines made all possible arrangements for his safe-conduct.

Pilot of the air-liner was a Winthrop man, Capt. Walter Hughen, a veteran of every sky route on the North American continent.

Co-pilot was Randolph Churchill, also of Winthrop, a former army flier.

Their compasses today were checked and double-checked.

And smiling "Wrong Way" Corrigan, who started to fly to California and landed in Ireland, carried an automatic compass of his

Cross of Honor For Corrigan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (INS)—Douglas "Wrong Way" Corrigan will receive the highest decoration of the United States Flag Association—its Cross of Honor—when he comes here Wednesday to bask in the acclaim of the nation's capital.

The award will be presented by former Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of the association's National Council of '76, at a luncheon to be staged in honor of the plucky young Irishman. The decoration is identical with those awarded to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Amelia Earhart and Howard Hughes.

Corrigan's 'Crate' Safe Back in U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—That "crate" got back today—the one Douglas Corrigan flew to Ireland with a teacup of gasoline and a grin—and frankly, it didn't look like much.

It was in the No. 2 hold of the S. S. Lehigh of the Oriole line, bereft of its wings and lashed down so no harm could come to it. Corrigan was very specific on that point. It must not be scratched.

On the Hudson river pier, where the Lehigh tied up, a few curious spectators and a half dozen policemen gathered for the unloading of the $900 airplane.

Waiting, too, were a couple of trucks to cart it to Roosevelt Field to be assembled. Corrigan will fly it Thursday just to be sure it is all right. Steve Reich, the flier's friend, supervised the unloading.

Hurley Greeting To Non-Stop

In welcoming Douglas Corrigan at the airport, Governor Hurley said:

"The Commonwealth of Massachusetts is proud today in the privilege of honoring the delightful and intrepid young man whose accomplishment of successfully flying to Erin, when perhaps his destination may have been California, has thrilled the world.

"As governor of this great Commonwealth, I extend to you the heartfelt greetings of an enthusiastic citizenry and assure you that no error of compass, of place, or of affection is in evidence when as one unit Massachusetts says—Welcome Douglas Corrigan."

own today, a New York gift.

No compasses, his or anybody else's, were needed, however, to make Boston the center of America's "Welcome — Corrigan" enthusiasm today.

Celebration experts said the days of wild acclaim for airmen were over.

They said the modern pilot was just a high-priced chauffeur; a faultless technician in a cockpit of almost perfect scientific devices. They said the romance of the air lanes had passed.

But a modest young man with dare-devil nerve and a $999 airplane proved they were wrong.

Boston wanted a noisy, heartfelt reception, but not the stampeding type which nearly crippled "Doug" in New York. His chest still was strapped today from injuries inflicted by the crushing Gotham throngs.

Ticker tape and confetti will come into their own today in downtown Boston. There'll be no holiday tomorrow for the street department, ankle deep in the traditional salute to heroes.

ROUTE OF PARADE

The parade route from the airport was to Maverick street, to Chelsea street, to Porter street, to Central square (5-minute stop), to Meridian street, to Pearl street, Chelsea, to Park street, to Chelsea square (10-minute stop), to Chelsea street, Charlestown, to Vine street, to Hayes square, to Bunker Hill street, to Lexington street, to Monument square (10-minute stop), to Winthrop street, to Adams street, to Common street, to Park street, to City square (5-minute stop), to Washington street, north, to Haymarket square, to Sudbury street, to Scollay square, to Tremont street, to School street, to City Hall for a 25-minute stop.

At about 3:15 leave City Hall, School street, to Washington street, to Court street, to Tremont street, to Park street, to Beacon street to State House for 30-minute stop.

At about 3:50 to Beacon street, from State House, then to Charles street, through central gate of Boston Common to grandstand for reception.

After reception from bandstand out through central gate to Charles street to Beacon street, to Arlington street, to the Hotel Statler, where he will stay.

The 31-year-old aviator found many a namesake among those who turned out to hail him.

First of all were those two Corrigans, John J. and Joseph R., the two Boston patrolmen who formed his personal bodyguard.

Scores of others were waiting to shake his hand at the State House, where a Corrigan get-together was planned.

Politics were to be banned during the celebration. Police had orders to see that no political banners or impromptu campaign speeches were rung into the welcome.

Thoughtful of admiring youngsters who were not able to come downtown to meet him, the flier planned to make two stops originally unscheduled.

They are at the Children's Hospital and the House of the Angel Guardian. Both are to be visited at the flyer's own suggestion.

Then he will fulfill another of his desires in a short trip of inspection at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

IDOL OF KIDS

First confetti shower Corrigan weathered was in thickly settled sections of East Boston, where hundreds of children in windows along the route, tore colored paper in clumsy bits and rained it down on him.

He was first of all a hero to the kids, from start to finish.

Along the waterfront between East Boston and Chelsea, urchins in scanty bathing suits scrambled up on pilings and bridge rails to wave and cheer.

Ready for War; Reds Tell Japs

By JAMES E. BROWN

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

MOSCOW, Aug. 8—Coupled with a flat official refusal to tolerate any revision of the Siberian border, Soviet Russia today warned that all its fighting forces are set to deal with Japan.

"The military aviation of the U. S. S. R. is ready for any surprises," wrote General Liktionov, chief of the Red air force, in a Communist youth newspaper.

"Those Japanese adventurers who made attempts on our border have received an excellent lesson from all branches of our army, including aviation."

Heroism on the part of at least one Red airman on the Siberian frontier was claimed by Liktionov.

SOVIET UNION QUIET

"We cannot but admire Konstantin Sieptov, who single-handedly met nine planes ad routed them after forcing one down," he wrote.

Immediately after the foreign commissariat's rejection of renewed Japanese peace offers, Pravda, organ of the Communist party, sounded this authoritative keynote:

"The Soviet Union does not want war. On the contrary, it wants to strengthen and maintain peace. But we will not agreed to revision of our border.

"he Soviet Union remains quiet, certain of its power."

Calm seriousnese, in full realization of the gravity of the situation, characterized the tone of the newspapers as Moscow awaited Tokyo's rejoinder to Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov's rejection of Ambassador Mamoru Shimeitsu's proposals.

Japan may reply with the acceptance of Litvinov's counter-proposals, or she may answer with bullets, bombs and shells.

The latter means war.

DISPUTE ON HILL

Marshal Vassily Bluecher, commander of the Red Far Eastern army, holds Lake Khasan and its neighboring hills, it is asserted here, and in the opinion of foreign observers, only Japanese force could remove him.

Japan must either accept the Soviet assertion that the hilly battleground is in Soviet territory, or continue to insistthat the hill is Japanese—which means renewed military activity.

Litvinov clearly stated that the hill is Soviet territory, and hence Russia will not surrender an inch.

Reds Suspect Japan Envoy

LONDON, Aug. 8 (INS)—Messages reaching London today indicated that Russia suspects Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu of cooperating with Japan's military clique in trying to aggravate the Far Eastern situation and provoke a war.

Soviet hostility is apparently centered on Shigemitsu as a sort of villain of the piece.

British Cut Size of Zion

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Copyright, 1938

JERUSALEM, Aug. 8 (INS)—World Jewry, shaken from pogroms and persecutions worse than any since Biblical times, has in store another blow.

The British commission on partition of Palestine is taking back to England plans which, it was learned today, will reduce the Jewish national home in Palestine to dimensions incapable of accommodating more than an insignificant fraction of the Jewish refugees, for whom Zionists hoped the Holy Land would be a sanctuary.

Instead of a great Judah whither millions of oppressed Jews could flee, it will be proposed to set up a tiny Jewish state which would serve as a "token home" and fulfill the letter, though not the spirit, of the Balfour declaration.

Terror in Palestine, which in July reached an all-time high, with 189 killed and 869 wounded, convinced the British that the Jews cannot be given more.

Several variations are still being debated by the commission, which has yet to hear witnesses. England has not yet formulated a report and may yet change her mind.

However, it was learned that the most favorable project considered possible by the commission is as follows:

The Jews are to have for an independent state the territory outlined by the Peel commission, but without Galilee, Acre or Haifa.

The British will take over Galilee, Acre and Haifa and the corridor between Jerusalem and Jaffa, also the entire southern desert area of Palestine on a revised mandate.

The Arabs will receive the rest of the country for their state, perhaps to be united with trans-Jordan under Abdulla's.

This will give the Jews a national state about half the size of Rhode Island, capable of accommodating by excessive squeezing and intensive industrialization a maximum of 400,000 Jews more than are now here.

Chinese Sink 3 Jap Ships

SHANGHAI, Aug. 8 (AP)—Chinese announced today their bombing planes attacked and sank three and damaged four of an estimated 90 Japanese warcraft concentrated in the Yangtze river 110 to 150 miles down river from Hankow.

Furthermore, the Chinese asserted, the Japanese advance up the river had been "definitely halted" by counter-attacks and floods.

Hundreds of Japanese were reported killed on the north bank of the Yangtze. Fighting on land centered about 110 miles from Hankow, the provisional Chinese capital and goal of the Japanese campaign.

30 Killed in Jap Raid on Canton

CANTON, China, Aug. 8 (AP)—Thirty persons were killed and 40 wounded today when Japanese warplanes dropped two bombs in the crowded square in front of the Catholic Cathedral here.

Nine planes took part in the raid, attacking the central area of the city where government buildings are located. The cathedral was slightly damaged.

SORE FEET

To His Soldiers Napoleon Said, "OIL YOUR FEET"

Sore, aching, burning feet probably cause more misery—more distress—more bad temper and cursing than most other human ailments.

"Oil your Feet," ordered Napoleon to his soldiers before a battle or a long march—he was a clever man.

Many a time—overnight—you can take out the sting—the soreness—the burning and aching from your poor distressed feet by giving them a good rubbing with penetrating medicated OMEGA OIL.

Rub them before going to bed and next morning you will probably awake happy—walk more joyfully to work—35c. "Oil your feet."

Roosevelt Magic Holds

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8—There is plenty of opposition to New Deal policies, but the Roosevelt endorsement, the Roosevelt touch, still carries plenty of political magic.

The politicians were convinced of this today as they surveyed the results of the Kentucky primary, in which Senator Alben W. ("Dear Alben") Barkley emerged a winner over Governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler in the race for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

For Roosevelt it was a personal triumph. Barkley was his own choice for Senate leader. He put him over—by one vote—against the choice of the Senate, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

WHITE HOUSE VICTORY

The Senate wanted Harrison, but the White House wanted Barkley, and Barkley it was. Then Barkley got in trouble in Kentucky, opposed by a young and popular governor, "Happy" Chandler, one of the greatest vote getters in Kentucky's history.

Again Roosevelt came to the rescue. He invaded Kentucky a month ago and told the voters he wanted Barkley returned to the Senate.

He didn't doubt that "Happy" would make a good Senator—as he had made a good governor. He simply stated that he wanted Barkley. "Happy" could wait—he is only 40. Barkley is 61.

On Saturday, Kentucky Democrats supplied the answer. They renominated Barkley in a record-breaking primary vote.

Inevitably, the renomination of Barkley projects him into the 1940 presidential picture, which already is getting crowded—provided, of course, that Roosevelt himself is not a candidate.

PICKS HIS SPOTS

In Missouri, last week, another favorite son came to the front—Senator Bennett Champ Clark, son of the old time Speaker of the House. Clark was renominated overwhelmingly in the Missouri primary.

There will be other favorite sons in the 1940 Democratic convention—Wheeler of Montana, Byrd of Virginia, and there will be Garner and Jesse Jones from Texas. The primary battles go on tomorrow with four states balloting—Arkansas, Idaho, Nebraska and Ohio.

In none of these states which ballot tomorrow has the President taken any sides, except for the slight pat on the back which he gave to Bulkley of Ohio. Roosevelt picks his spots.

3 More States Test Deal In Primaries

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—That Kentucky victory of Senate leader Alben W. Barkley increased the hopes of administration lieutenants today for a threefold triumph in tomorrow's senatorial primaries.

Democratic Senators Robert Bulkley of Ohio, Hattie Caraway of Arkansas and James P. Pope of Idaho will be up for renomination as loyal Roosevelt backers.

Senator Pope's race against Representative D. Worth Clark, however, may bring the only clearcut test of administration policies. Pope, who helped write the crop control act, has not opposed any Roosevelt measures, while Clark as a self-styled conservative voted against the government reorganization bill and various other White House proposals.

"MY OLD FRIEND"

In Arkansas, Representative John McClellan told a rally yesterday that he is as loyal to the President as is Mrs. Caraway, whom he is opposing. The only woman senator, completing her seventh year in office, was greeted by J'r. Roosevelt last month as an "old friend."

Former Gov. George White of Ohio, like Senator Bulkley, has campaigned as a Roosevelt supporter, but it was Bulkley who received kind words from the President in his Marietta speech.

TAFT FACES BATTLE

Ohio's Republican senatorial contest between Robert Taft and Arthur J. Day also has aroused widespread interest. So has the campaign of Democratic Gov. Martin L. Davey for a third term against Charles Sawyer, national committeeman.

The Social Security board is considering withdrawal of federal old age pension grants from Ohio on the ground that Davey made political use of the pension system.

A fourth state—Nebraska—also will conduct its primary election tomorrow, but no senatorial race is to be settled this year. Gov. R. L. Cochran and the state's five Representatives are seeking nominations for third terms.

East Wind Gives Heat the Boot

A brisk east wind today broke the heat wave that had broiled New Englanders for nine days and brought death to 60 persons seeking relief at beach and country resorts.

From the 90 mark, the mercury slumped before noon to the low 70's. Weather officials predicted the cool spell would last at least 24 hours.

The drop in temperature followed a series of severe electrical storms which struck in many parts of Massachusetts.

Worcester Road's 45th Auto Death

WORCESTER, Aug. 8—An auto death on the Worcester-Springfield road today brought the total of such fatalities on the same stretch of highway to 45 since 1932, according to police.

Today's victim was John Vikas, 45, of Fifth street.

He was instantly killed when he stepped into the path of an auto operated by Allen Keller of Swampscott.

Barkley In, Chandler Concedes

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 8 (AP)—Gov. A. B. Chandler today conceded his defeat as Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley's lead in Saturday's Democratic senatorial primary continued to climb.

Tabulating was resumed after a Sunday recess, required by law.

On the basis of unofficial returns from 3398 of the state's 4313 precincts Barkley had 227,015 votes to 188,856 for the governor, a majority of 38,159.

Chandler in a congratulatory telegram to the Senator pledged his "active support" of the nominee in the November election.

The governor said:

"President Roosevelt said he desired your return anda majority of Kentucky Democrats agreed to return you. I bow to the will ofthe majority of my fellow citizens. I have no excuses, alibis or regrets . . ."

In the Republican primary, John P. Haswell, on the basis of unofficial returns from 1339 precincts, was far ahead of his four opponents in the race for the senatorial nomination. Haswell was backed by the state GOP organization.

2 Dawn Bandits In $140 Holdup

Two dawn bandits today robbed the manager of a chain store at 443 Brookline avenue, Boston, at the point of guns, escaping with $140 in cash.

W. F. Harris

The manager, Wilbur F. Harris, of Glenville avenue, Allston, told the police he was removing the padlock from the front door when two men stepped up behind him and jabbed guns in his back.

"They forced me inside, threatened to kill me if I turned around, and took $140, of which $131 was the store receipts and $9 mine.

"Then they made me go into the cellar and slammed the trap door. By the time I could get out, they were gone."

FIRE ROUTS 1000 FAMILIES

MANILA, Aug. 8 (INS)—Still raging unchecked today, great fires in a section of Manila and San Pablo robbed more than 1000 families of their homes, and caused an immense property loss.

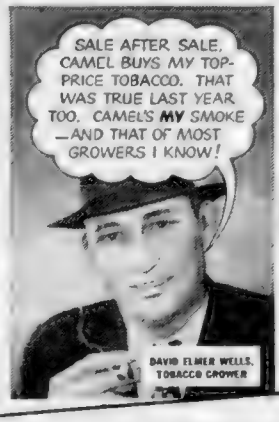
Edinburgh Slaying Suspect Seized

EDINBURGH, Aug. 8 (AP)—James Lennox, 19-year-old baker and, it is said, nephew of Sir Womack J. Thompson, former lord provost of Edinburgh, was charged today with the murder of a spinster dairy clerk whose body was found yesterday in a shallow grave in the garden of Sir William's mansion.

The clerk, Miss Jean Powell, 30, disappeared Saturday.

WILLIAM VANDIFORD KNOWS TOBACCO from seedling to cigarette. And his cigarette choice is Camel! "Over and over again," says Mr. Vandiford, "Camel has bought my choicest tobacco. Last crop I got $490 an acre. Of course I smoke Camels! So do most of my grower friends."



SALE AFTER SALE, CAMEL BUYS MY TOP-PRICE TOBACCO. THAT WAS TRUE LAST YEAR TOO. CAMEL'S MY SMOKE —AND THAT OF MOST GROWERS I KNOW!
DAVID ELMER WELLS, TOBACCO GROWER

THE REAL PLEASURE of cigarette smoking is what grower John Durham, Jr. is enjoying. Yes, it's a Camel. For, as Mr. Durham states, "I see the tobacco that cigarette companies buy. Camel pays more to get the best of my own crops and of my friends. It's Camels for us!"

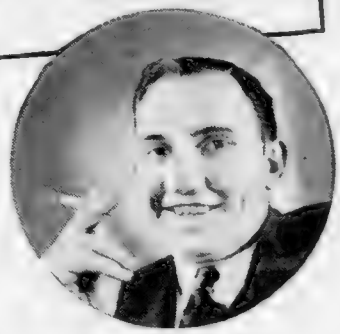
S. J. BONE CONFIRMS growers' preference for Camels with "Camels stand ace-high with tobacco planters. Camel buys better tobacco—my own and that of other growers I know."

TOBACCO PLANTERS SAY:

"OUR FINEST TOBACCOS... the most richly fragrant and delicately mild varieties — go to Camel — naturally that's the brand we smoke!"

PLANTER LEE MASON knows tobacco — he grows it. He says: "For a finer smoke, smoke finer tobacco. That means Camels to me and to most planters. Camel pays to get the best."

IS there a real difference in the tobacco that goes into various cigarettes? "Yes" —say the men who live with tobacco— the planters themselves. They know who buys their best grades. "Camel buys our choicest lots!" say the typical planters on this page. So, when it comes to selecting a cigarette for their own smoking, it's natural for planters to choose Camel's finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS. Try Camels yourself today! Compare them for their enjoyable taste, for their special mildness which permits steady smoking.



"A TOBACCO GROWER chooses his own smoke by the tobacco the cigarette people buy," says planter Edward Thompson. "Time after time Camel buys my best baskets—and those of my friends. 'Course we smoke Camels—we know tobacco quality."

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS —Turkish and Domestic

GROWER MARVIN HOLLOMAN speaks as an "insider" on the subject of tobacco quality. "Finer tobaccos make a big difference in smoking. Camel takes my real choice lots. So I smoke Camels."

Tells Carroll Threat to Kill

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 8—This is testimony today in the trial of former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll for the slaying of Dr. James G. Littlefield, for which Paul N. Dwyer, 19, high school sweetheart of Carroll's daughter, is now serving life.

[illegible]

Q—What became of Dr. Littlefield's car? A—I bought it.

NO BLOOD ON SEAT

Q—You have it now? A—Yes, sir.

Q—What became of it? A—I traded it.

Q—To whom? A—Lewiston Buick.

Q—You were the chief investigator in Dwyer's case? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Now, Mr. Sheriff, were there any bloodstains in that car? A—Only one, a small spot about 1½ inches in diameter in back of the front seat. There was no blood on the front seat.

Q—You say it was the last day of the Dwyer trial that your suspicions of Mr. Carroll became aroused? A—I was told the story that day, approximately as Paul Dwyer told it here on the witness stand.

Q—Who told you that story? A—My deputy, Mr. Verrill.

Q—Was that before Dwyer entered his plea of guilty? A—No, sir.

Q—Did you investigate that story then? A—I detailed Mr. Verrill to investigate. He has been investigating constantly since then.

Q—You continued to retain Mr. Carroll as your deputy? A—I did.

Q—Has the work assigned him to it been any different? A—I had some trouble with him in the way of drinking.

WATCHED CARROLL

Q—He had been one of your principal deputies, assigned to criminal work? A—Yes, sir.

Q—After the last day of the Dwyer trial did you assign him to different work? A—Yes, sir. I assigned him to different work and kept him where we could watch him.

Q—What became of the various articles belonging to Dr. and Mrs. Littlefield? A—They were turned over to the administrator of the estate.

Q—On the night of Oct. 11th you were in your office? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Who was with you? A—No one.

Q—And you were alone all that evening? A—Except for the prisoners.

Q—Mrs. Francis was in your home ajoining the sheriff's office? A—Yes, sir.

[illegible]

ON MURDER NIGHT

Q—Did you detail Mr. Carroll to take prisoners to the reformatory? A—No. Any deputy on duty at the time is authorized to receive calls.

[illegible]

Q—Now, Mr. Sheriff, at the time you arrested Mr. Carroll on the morals charge, you had been investigating the murder of Dr. Littlefield for some time, had you not sufficiently long for Carroll to be well aware that you were investigating a murder? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Did you have a talk with Mr. Carroll about the cigarette-lighter that cigarets as an exhibit in this case? A—No, sir.

Q—You have stated the gun belonging to Mr. Carroll was in your office the night of Oct. 11? A—Yes, sir. I got the call to Mr. Farnum's house and took it to the desk for a gun and there were no guns in the desk.

Q—In your first telephone call from North Arlington, N. J., just how were the details gone into as to Mr. Dwyer's story, at that time, of how the murder took place? A—Yes, sir.

HAD DATE ON CARROLL

Q—You then went out to the Dwyer home? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Where was Mr. Verrill the night of October 11? A—He had gone to Lewiston with his wife.

Q—Mr. Sheriff, after you became suspicious of Mr. Carroll you kept him on as your deputy, why did you do that? A—I felt the only safe thing for me to do was to keep Mr. Carroll as close to me as I could. I found he had gone out to the jail and immediately got a young chap named Bonney, who is in state's prison now. The boy's father came in and told me about it. I was suspicious of Carroll and I felt the only thing I could do was keep him where I could watch him with the least possibility of harm to anyone else.

Q—It took you from some time in November to the latter part of May to determine that Mr. Dwyer's story might be true? A—Yes, sir.

JERSEY PROSECUTOR SENT

[illegible]

Q—Did you at that time conduct an investigation? A—I did.

[illegible]

Q—Did Dwyer sign this? A—About 6 o'clock that night.

Q—Did Dwyer say anything to you not in this transcript? A—He was greatly disturbed about Barbara Carroll. He said to me, 'Now Mr. Hessin, if I sign this confession will the girl's name be dropped out?'

[illegible]

ADVISED HE CONFESS

Q—by Ingalls—And your statement is that he stated to you that if he did sign this confession, he wanted her name out of the case completely? A—Yes.

[illegible]

Q—You could give him no such assurance, of course? A—Of course I couldn't. I told him I didn't know what the law in the state of Maine was but my advice to him was to make a full, free and frank confession—a clean breast of it. I sat down and talked to him and he to me just as I am talking to you here.

Q—Did he mention Francis Carroll, her father the respondent here? A—He never mentioned Francis Carroll's name in my presence.

[illegible]

DIDN'T BELIEVE DWYER

Q—What was your defense? A—Well, I had gone over Dwyer's previous statements and couldn't put much stock in them. It was a very confusing defense.

Q—Didn't you say to me that you had three contemplated defenses? A—I don't recall that I exactly told you that.

Q—What were those three defenses, Mr. Abbott? A—Well, first, that Paul Dwyer couldn't possibly have done it—that he was physically incapable of doing it.

Q—And your second defense? A—Referring to Dwyer's statement in New Jersey, it appeared to me the state was without a motive and I thought I would try to show—try to get away with—manslaughter.

Q—And number three? A—I was trying to weave in as much as I could of the Carroll story when Francis Carroll took the stand as a witness in connection with the robbery theory.

WARNED ABOUT CARROLL

Q—You were trying to weave in the Carroll story after Dwyer had told you it was not true? A—I was going to get in as much as I could, yes, sir.

Q—You say the state did not have a motive? How did you know that? A—Well, I presupposed that.

[illegible]

"I told the sheriff he had better investigate Francis Carroll.

[illegible]

again cranked.

Q—You told the sheriff he had better investigate? A—Yes.

Q—And you permitted Dwyer to plead guilty? A—I thought it was the only thing to do at that time.

THREATS TO KILL

Q—And did he say Carroll threatened his life and his mother's life? A—Yes.

Q—Did he make any statement other than that? A—No, sir.

Q—Did you at any time say to me, Mr. Abbott, that you would like to defend Mr. Carroll, and that you could acquit him? A—No, sir. I never said I could acquit Mr. Carroll.

[illegible]

FOUND IN PAWN

[illegible]

Q—Did Paul Dwyer ever say anything to you about his losing or your finding a gun? A—I

Boston After Dark

By JACK CONWAY

Mickey Cochrane was always a 100 per cent ball player at heart and not much of a front office man, which is one of the reasons he lost his job as manager of the Detroit Tigers . . . Walter O. Briggs, Sr., owner of the Detroit club, is a baseball fan and has a tendency to go along with the crowd rather than follow the judgment of practical baseball people.

Briggs has listened to every squawk made by rabid fans who want Detroit to win a pennant every year even though the club hasn't got the necessary pitchers . . . The Walker-Kennedy deal a year ago was used as the opening shot against Cochrane . . . The lack of suitable pitchers has been the real reason for the failure of the Tigers this year . . . Perhaps Briggs believes that Del Baker, his new manager, will be able to pull another Schoolboy Rowe and a Wild Bill Donovan out of his hat.

JACK CONWAY

Bridgewater was the gloomiest spot in the United States when the story broke that Mickey Cochrane had been given the gate . . . It was from Bridgewater that Mickey came when he entered Boston University to get his education and also to prove he was a brilliant baseball and football player.

Frank Navin Was Cochrane's Friend

The late Frank Navin was Cochrane's friend in Detroit . . . Navin first wanted to get Babe Ruth as manager but the latter was touring Japan and didn't want to be hurried with his decision . . . So Navin called up Connie Mack and purchased Cochrane for $100,000 . . . Navin promised Cochrane a life job in Detroit, and would have kept his word if he had lived . . . Navin was that kind of a man . . . I would like to see Cochrane join either the Red Sox or the Bees as a coach . . . A baseball brain like that possessed by Mickey Cochrane certainly could help the Boston baseball situation.

Tom Yawkey, Eddie Collins and Joe Cronin of the Red Sox consider Cochrane a pal . . . Each of them feels Mickey was given a poor deal in Detroit and blame the position of his club to the lack of pitchers . . . When Yawkey goes hunting in the far West he always likes to have the Bridgewater favorite as a member of his party . . . Del Baker may be a great manager but he does not bring to the game the color and spirit that enabled Cochrane to gain a position in baseball close to Ruth.

Since Leo Durocher became the Dodgers as coach he has been drawing thousands of "peppered" exhibition games . . . The presence of Ruth on the coaching lines has also helped the Dodgers draw capacity crowds at night games in Brooklyn . . . The public likes players and Cochrane and Ruth ever thought some club owners do not wish to recognize this fact.

Cochrane won two American League pennants and one World's championship in Detroit and finished second twice . . . What more must a manager do to hold his job?

Good Racing Pleases Judge Dooley

Judge James E. Dooley, president of Narragansett Park, says he is satisfied with conditions at the Pawtucket, R. I., track despite the fact there has been a decided drop in the mutuel handle.

"The racing has been good and that is the important thing," said Judge Dooley . . . "The warm weather and the employment situation has worked against a large handle, but if we continue to give the public fine racing our problems will take care of themselves."

Walter E. O'Hara's post for governor of Lower Isaac's on a "Square Deal" platform are torn up, mailed in tantrum and chucked with a Thompson . . . Joe Dorsey, of Brockton, who has been Sports Ed. No. 1 for years announces his candidacy for State treasurer's post on the Democratic ticket.

Girl About Town

By Ann Marsters

OLD BOSTON:- Captain Kemble came home from sea, 150 years ago, and Mrs. Kemble met him at the wharf where, publicly, loudly, on Lord's day noon, the Captain kissed her mouth. The magistrates of Boston sent him to the stocks to repent his shameful act.

Ann Marsters

The stocks were on Boston Common where the Puritans hanged Margaret Jones, America's first woman doctor. They also hanged one Rachel Wall for stealing a bonnet.

The pious Puritans drank 960,000 gallons of rum in the year 1763. Most Bostonians drank a lot of rum too until a white woman had a colored baby, and blamed it on the beverage.

And there was a "Scarlet Letter" girl who fell in love with the minister, and was forced to wear a scarlet letter. Her name was Elizabeth Pain, and she is buried in a Boston churchyard.

Boston children were employed as pallbearers, and they helped carry Governor Hancock to the cemetery.

HOW DO we know all this? Well we've been leafing over the new edition of Leonard Earle's book "And This is Boston."

Incidentally, we've also read a story about Mother Goose, written by Eleanor especially for the Green Magazine of the Boston Sunday Advertiser. It's to appear in next Sunday's issue and you'll learn some surprising facts about Mother Goose and how she came to write her jingles. For Mother Goose was a Boston girl herself and she lived just around the corner from where I'm sitting now.

REELECTION: Here's a trial for a green earth, in the center of Copley Square, and it simply cries out for a statue. Our city fathers should consider the matter, for Copley Square is one of the most delightful spots in the city, and a suitable piece of sculpture would make it all the more impressive.

It should be something that would mingle with the mood of the Public Library and Trinity Church. Why not a memorial to one of our own great men.- Longfellow or Emerson or Hawthorne or Oliver Wendell Holmes?

Doesn't it seem strange considering all the statuary which has been erected in Boston, that the center of Copley Square should have been neglected?

HOLLYWOOD STORY: A young Eng. girl came to America for a visit, and her travels took her to Hollywood. There she stayed on and on, week after week, seeming completely enthralled by the people and the activities of Hollywood.

Finally someone asked her how long she planned to stay. The girl gazed wide eyed and answered:

"How I'm going to stay until it closes."

New York Cavalcade

By Louis Sobol

HOLLYWOOD: Recently I lamented the passing of a Broadway institution, famed Gray's Drug Store, home of the collate theater tickets and assembly spot in its day for many of Broadway's favorite sons. Gray's is moving, and it may be the tradition of the past will be maintained at the new site. Hollywood has a counterpart of Gray's. Schwab's drug store is right around the corner from where I have my temporary abode in the Garden of Allah. I began feasting about it almost as soon as I had unpacked and my skepticism vanished when I found sitting at the soda fountain at the time James Cagney, Harpo Marx, Jack Benny and Robert Taylor. Schwab's is the village general store and certainly other and nosing only as the crossed fairies.

IN CALLING attention to the place I am evidently, in favor for the four brothers who are in charge have no yearning to attract attention from tourists and rubber-neckers. It has been a refuge for the stars seeking escape from the autograph hunters. Director Lloyd Bacon is said to have also voted the homely charm of the drug store and soon others of the movie colony began congregating, until now, not a day passes that does not find half a dozen of them in the store, either for a hasty breakfast or for liquid sweets.

IF SCHWAB'S is the Gray's of Hollywood, then surely Ciro's is the Buffet Exchange of Los Angeles. In Manhattan you can eat your fill at any Buffet Exchange, branch and it's left to your sense of honor and honesty to pay exactly the price marked for each dish. Ciro's originated by a former San Franciscan operates on a like principle. Despite the Buffet you do receive a check however before the back of it is this statement: 'Regardless of the amount of the check - our cashier will cheerfully accept whatever you wish to pay or you may dare not.'

NOT ONLY those who are lucky but have no funds but also the very elite of Los Angeles are patrons at Ciro's. The former are free to eat at will and make no payment. The latter often pay in excess voluntarily. It's a fair enterprise, but not any more than the character of its owner. Clifton who insists that everything he does in life is inspired by the Golden Rule. Mr. Clifton's faith in his fellow men is something too sincere to start about to be skeptical about. He's interested not only in your physical appetites but in your spiritual hunger as well.

Why Heads Swell

By Hugh S. Johnson

BETHANY BEACH, DEL.: Senator Barkley and Happy Chandler are reported to have wound up their campaigns in a boasting contest about their relative abilities to get things out of Washington for Kentucky. The Senator says that he knows his way around that snooty labyrinth so much better than Happy that he can bring home more bacon. Even the President hinted at something of the sort.

Hugh Johnson

Happy insists that Allen's begging has been so bad that Kentucky is one of the few states that actually pay into Washington more taxes than they take out in pork and further, that he, Happy, is a much better panhandler than the Senator.

There are both great guys and worthy [illegible] to [illegible] but this sounds like pretty low stuff on which to ask votes. Though it happens to be the grim, candid truth of a principal issue. Under the present system whereby the Federal Government has grabbed so much power to take the States' money away from them to spend in their behalf, the State that hasn't excellent panhandlers as its representatives is just out of luck. Its money will be taken away in taxes but it won't be sent back. Other States with better "gimmegays" in Congress will get it.

It is a true bill, Ike, that "knowing the way around" Washington is an absolute essential to prevent this massive short-changing of timid States. It is not only a question of political and actual geography of that tangle maze of interlocking bureaucracies. It consists also in being known favorably and sympathetically to many little despots of a hundred petty principalities.

BABY-KISSING politicians who have certainly to coo and woo the public for re-election have at least to keep their noses down and the corners of their mouths up in their contacts and conduct of business with visitors. This host of appointed officials. Too many of them "may the pathos be d[illegible]."

FURTHERMORE, THERE IS NOTHING BETTER CALCULATED TO MAKE AN INSOLENT, OPINIONATED JACK-ASS OUT OF A MEDIOCRE NINCOMPOOP, THAN TO TAKE HIM OUT OF SOME $40 A WEEK JOB IN CIVIL LIFE AND SEAT HIM BEHIND A GOVERNMENT DESK AT $7090 TO $10,000 A YEAR, INVESTED WITH MORE OR LESS POWER OVER THE SPENDING OF MILLIONS.

Even in lesser jobs there seems to be something about service in a government bureau that makes even the best people begin to suspect that they are more than a minor part in God's great design for the universe. Some lose sight altogether of the fact that they are servants of the public, regard nearly all callers on official business as inferior nuisances and the time of their visitors as worthless.

Yes, Allen's and Happy's contest in promising successful panhandling may sound sleazy but it is the essence of realism.

"RACKET BUSTERS" by Joseph Mulvaney

New York Caught In Gangster Grip

What Has Happened:

Martin, ace of racketeers, moves to organize the truck drivers and control New York's food supply. Special Prosecutor Allison moves against him. Charlie, a truckman, testifies against Martin and is threatened. Denny Jordan opposes Martin, who burns his trucks and threatens Denny's wife, soon to become a mother. Horse Wilson, Denny's partner, discreetly decides to go into the private detective business. Martin stages a reign of vandalism in Washington Market to show that he can "do more than all a truckmen's meeting to organize the drivers."

CHAPTER 7

(Endorsed by the Commercial Crime Commission as a PUBLIC SERVICE Story and Picture; a Cosmopolitan Production released by Warner Bros. and opening Thursday, Aug. 11, at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters.)

New York faced a situation fraught with more peril than was Britain's under the Nazi Sea Transport blockade or Leningrad's food.

Law and order, the movement of merchandise and the distribution of property were confirmed in the other cities' crises, but Martin's mobs were moving to stop the food supply of the metropolis' millions.

The President knew it and the Governor and Special Prosecutor Tom Allison knew it best of all. Yet the President could not call out troops and the Governor could not find an excuse, much less a reason, to order the National Guard into action.

At the precise instance every available policeman, almost 20,000 men, were ordered to their stations. The Chamber of Commerce, the Produce Exchange, the Fifth Avenue Association, the Broadway Association, the Board of Trade and Transportation adopted resolutions.

The American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations repudiated the racketeers and Martin and Martin sent word back later, oh, so respectfully:

"SO WHAT"

And the message said that the men of Tom Allison proposed was the rape, pillage and plunder of a peaceful labor movement, to take over the work of the conservative old locals. The law violated the right of workers to organize and encouraged them.

THE SHOWDOWN

The law enforcement agencies struggled to prepare to protect and defend, only to find a secondary danger. The citizens of the town who had been told they would be assisted and protected by the police were outraged when the new union was recognized and the police promised protection of its officials.

First, the problem of the trucks that had to run the gauntlet of the picket lines. Tom Allison, Denny and Horse Wilson were busy hatching plans to meet that.

The next was the question of the loyalty of the police. Allison, Horse and Denny had a hunch that [illegible] Martin.

Civic Welfare Aided by Drive

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (INS)—In organizing for better business, Syracuse, N. Y., put those with axes to grind into the background, and brought the moral leadership of the community into the foreground.

Ministers, public officials, bankers and economists were mobilized to tell the [illegible] dependence of the people of the community, and that civic welfare rested on economic activity, rather than [illegible]

FORWARD SYRACUSE

Ben Weiss, managing director of Day Brothers and Company, who has acted as chairman of the Forward Syracuse committee, in a message to this column said:

"Our drive is progressing very satisfactorily. There are 315 individual firms employing about 11,000 persons actively participating in the campaign. The emphasis is on 'Buy' rather than on 'Sell.' We felt that the campaign in the long run would accomplish more through an effort to dispel fear than by having all the business interests of the city shout 'sale' or 'sell.'

"We have had practically all the business, civic and philanthropic leaders of the city either on the air or in the press with statements to the effect that conditions are beginning to improve—that jobs are now a bit more secure—that working dollars really mean working men—and that NOW is the time to buy, not only because purchases made now help make someone's job more secure, but because prices are low with every reason for believing that soon prices will be higher.

"Sales have shown a slight improvement during the past three days.

"Regardless of that however, we are all satisfied that this Forward Syracuse movement is one that is most worthwhile and that good results should come out of it during the fall season."

Pascal Has Rights To Film Shaw Plays

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

(Copyright 1937)

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—It went to my head to the second time when Gabriel Pascal offered George Bernard Shaw one million dollars for the privilege of making the Shavian plays into pictures and he promised I'd be a first class artistic producer.

Louella O. Parsons

It was the second time when Pascal had gotten refused from Shaw. The first time he offered him only $100,000 and I am convinced now that Shaw was only interested in money.

But now Pascal has convinced Shaw that he will be a producer of artistic pictures and Shaw has given him the right to film "Pygmalion," "Caesar and Cleopatra" and "Androcles and the Lion."

Pascal has just completed "Pygmalion" with Leslie Howard at the Denham studios in London and has "Major Barbara" with the same star all cast as his next.

Meantime he is Hollywood trying to make arrangements for the production of at least one picture in this country.

How eager he is that Warner Oland will play a prominent part in his picture he revealed when he told me:

"I feel that I won't be back," he said, "and I want to spend the last days of my life with my own people in Sweden. I haven't been home since I was 14 years old."

Too old to play the part, I told him.

"I am an older man than anyone knows and I'm sick," he replied. "I won't be back."

Ann has been Dick's constant companion for the last few weeks. Dick and June were to have been married in September.

A LINE OR TWO: Mary Brian returns to Hollywood to play lead with Bob Burns in Hal Roach's new comedy. Mary's last picture was a comedy, too, but it was Paramount's "Easy Living" with Jean Arthur and Edward Arnold. Mary's last dramatic picture was "Peppy," which used to be married to Tom Tinney, is dead serious. Irene Dunne startled the film colony by appearing with Clark Gable and Jean Harlow, but Ann Morgan, MGM player, along with the Norman Krasnas, Ray Milland and Reginald Denny, is responsible for the rift between the two. 'What a Life' Cast Doubling

All members of the company of "What A Life," the comedy George Abbott will bring to the Wilbur Theater Sept. 5, will play their parts with the Broadway cast now current at the Biltmore Theater, New York, before coming here. Each will replace the actor now playing his role in New York.

Mr Abbott believes that the Boston cast will, consequently, have more thorough training and experience and that the Boston and New York companies will be of equal merit.

Eddie Bracken, seen here two seasons ago in "Brother Rat," has just completed four weeks as the leading man in the New York cast. He will have this part in Boston.

Connie Nickerson, formerly leading woman in the New York company of "Brother Rat," following the withdrawal of Mary Mason, has just completed nearly two weeks as the leading woman at the Broadway unit during Betty Lawes' vacation. She will take over the role in Boston.

Cochrane Tells of 'Firing Mystery' Over Telephone

IT IS POOR BUSINESS FOR ANY SPORT writer to worship the heroes he may be called upon to write pieces about. But I am afraid I made this mistake years ago when Mickey Cochrane was a pantalooned kid and I was an indentured apprentice with another Boston journal. Since then, through the years, disillusionment about the fine idealisms of some of the performers and the unimpeachable motives of some of the promoters, has brought about a chemical change. But I have never found Mickey, both in deed or character, other than the lad he was, though his youth has fled and his hair is peppered with the silver of early age.

AUSTEN LAKE

So, I think that Walter O. Briggs, the proprietor of Detroit's ball firm, has set the baseball business back half the distance to its goal line by firing the doughty little manager who brought him two pennants, a world championship and finished no less than second twice in his four years in office. What more does Mr. Briggs expect for his money?

Early this morning, by imposing on old friendship and foreshanded [illegible] my [illegible] and the time of my call I got through to Mickey [illegible] He talked frankly about his discharge [illegible] Mickey had [illegible] that he was to be dropped when the season [illegible] and Navin's stand to the Red Sox he was summoned to the office [illegible] with his underlings present.

Matter of "Pure Business"

IT HURTS TO HAVE TO DO THIS . . ." began Briggs, and Mike said for the first time a premonition of what was about to happen swept over him and he felt the scarlet tide climb into his cheeks. ". . . but we've decided to make a change in the management." Mike said it was like being struck with a beer mallet and there were singing sounds in his temples as Briggs added, "It's a matter of pure business."

There wasn't much more. Mickey didn't find anything appropriate to say beyond the perfunctory nothings of wishing luck to the club and his successor. So he went away down the tunnels and ramps which had lost their personal meaning and back to his home on Main and avenue, where he shut himself in and tried to sort reason from the grotesque pattern.

The phone began to ring incessantly. Telegrams poured in from other cities. Callers rang his doorbell. But beyond a few intimates like Tom Yawkey and a few of his older newspaper friends, he denied himself to all. "It was like getting beaned all over again," he said, referring to his almost fatal accident at the Yankee Stadium last summer when his skull was fractured and he was hurled off to lie in death's shadow at a New York hospital. Then, too, there had been hosts of callers and tons of telegrams, and the world had waited anxiously on the doorstep.

Father Hopes He "Gets Out for Good"

YAWKEY HADN'T CALLED TO OFFER HIM a job, said Mickey. He hadn't mentioned one. The time for job-talk was premature and he was going to a friend's ranch in Montana for three weeks to try to settle the fog in his brain. "I'm still looking for answers, I guess," he said. Afterward he would come home to visit his parents and make plans for the future.

Earlier I had called Mike's father at his Bridgewater farmstead and he had said, pessimistically, "I hope he gets out of baseball for good now. Mike made no comment about that and, obviously, he intends to look for further opportunities. 'I've still got some friends,' he said airily.

What puzzled him, he said, was that there had been no intimations from Briggs during the last week that his number was up, no sour note in the conversations he had held with his boss about club matters and player possibilities. And Briggs seemed reconciled that pitching collapse and failure of the percentages which had broken so nearly during pennant years was the cause—not Mickey's disintegration.

"Well," summed up Mike, "it's part of the game and you've gotta take the bitter with the sweet."

Golf Aces To Aid Women

Treat In Store At Belmont

By BILL GRIMES

Freddie [illegible] Boston Evening American and the Sunday Advertiser arranged to have Horton Smith, Harry Cooper, Lawson Little and Jimmy Thomson play for the Christmas Basket Fund again this season," confessed Freddie, "and, naturally, it goes without saying, that Belmont would have been my choice for the battle field.

"Few of even the most ardent golf enthusiasts have any idea just how much that crowd is going to aid the development of golf, continued the P. G. A. tournament manager.

"You haven't seen their pre-match shot making demonstration since they were at Sarasota last March. Well, I'll tell you they have to be proved their prodigies in muscle.

Freddie Corcoran

"When they played for the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund two years ago at Belmont, the shot making demonstration had not been smoothed out. But today there is nothing that is equal it in golf, or in any other sport promotion assignment.

"In my opinion, Smith, Cooper, Little and Thomson have done more to create new golf enthusiasts than any group in the game.

"For some time, Smith has been trying to arrange time before exhibition matches to give 15 or 20 minutes' instruction to women golfers," Freddie went on. "That is an innovation."

The fair sex has not been given a break, according to Smith. "There is a vast difference between the way men and women play golf. And Smith is very anxious to point out the differences in the swing as well as the clubs.

"As I understand he will introduce that innovation at Belmont. We were talking over the coming match at Belmont recently in Chicago and Horton plans to have the women gather at the 19th tee before the regular shot-making demonstration.

"I hope he is able to go through with that idea, for the girls are almost as badly off as the southpaws were in the days when the manufacturers didn't know how to make left-hand clubs."

TRIS SPEAKER, major domo of the Kellogg-Socony baseball school, was out bright and early today at Town Field, Dorchester, giving his charges instructions on the fundamentals of the game. Tris has for an assistant Buck O'Brien, who was pitcher for the Sox when most of the youngsters were in swaddling clothes. Charlie Hebert, in the class B division, is receiving instruction from the two former big league stars in the art of pitching.

Big league baseball, which formerly lived for them only in the headlines of the papers, lay cold [illegible] for scores of Boston American Newsboys today when they trooped to Town Field, Dorchester, for professional diamond instruction from a corps of experts headed by that Red Sox immortal, Tris Speaker.

"While the primary purpose of the school is to teach baseball," said Tris, "we believe the youngsters will acquire lessons in sportsmanship which are an inseparable part of clean sports."

public, indeed, when Mr. Briggs was drawing some lovely dividends during the pennat years he spoke of Cochrane as a fond father speaks of a precocious offspring. But now that the Detroit club begins to come apart, as the best ball clubs always do, he is moved by no more concern than the howling fan, who loves and supports the athletes in proportion as they are up the league ladder.

Armstrong's Bid For Three Titles | Ambers Is Fast And Still Young

By JACK CONWAY

IF LOU AMBERS should happen to defeat Henry Armstrong in their 15-round bout for the lightweight championship of the world at the Polo Grounds, New York, on Wednesday night, he would furnish one of the major boxing upsets of recent years.

Mr. Boston

Armstrong has been built so high in the minds of the public that it is not believed anybody short of the middleweight division would be able to conquer him.

Armstrong won the world's featherweight championship by knocking out Petey Sarron who at his best was never better than a fair second rater. He then stepped over the lightweight class and won the world's welterweight crown by outscoring Barney Ross in 15 rounds.

It was an old Ross who went down to defeat before Armstrong. The speed had gone out of Barney's legs, while there wasn't any power in his punch. Even a great fighter like Ross was the night he won the title by outboxing and outpunching Jimmy McLarnin cannot expect to go on forever. At the age of 29 most fighters are well on their way out of the fistic picture, and that was Ross' age the night he lost to Armstrong.

Ambers is a much better fighter than Sarron, and also superior to the Ross that lost to Armstrong. As a result, I look for him to give the double champion more opposition than did either Sarron or Ross.

Ambers is only 25 years of age, and is perpetual motion in the ring. He isn't easy to hit, and while he does not pack a knockout punch himself he does land a stinging wallop.

If Ambers could hit he would have an excellent chance to knock Armstrong out in the opinion of Dan Carroll and other persons close to boxing. They point to the fact Armstrong is wide open when he comes parading to close quarters swinging punches with both hands.

Ambers, however, hasn't got much of a chance of stopping Armstrong. The most he can hope for is to win the decision.

Armstrong will enter the ring a 3 to 1 to a 4 to 1 choice. You may expect to see the colored sensation come roaring from his corner throwing punches with both dukes. The fact Armstrong tosses so many blows is the reason he isn't much of a hitter. He uses up so much energy that he cannot be expected to tip over an opponent with a single punch.

Even when Armstrong had Ross helpless on the ropes he couldn't drop him to the canvas.

If Armstrong wins over Ambers he will have the distinction of being a triple champion.

Al Jolson Back at Saratoga

AL JOLSON has left New York and returned to Saratoga, and is unlikely to attend the Armstrong-Ambers bout. When in New York, Jolson refused to take time out from business to drop up to Pompton Lake, New Jersey, to see Armstrong in training.

It was Jolson's cash that purchased Armstrong's contract for Eddie Mead. Later Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club advanced Mead the money to buy out Jolson's interest in Armstrong. The latter then went on to beat Ross, and it is reported Jolson isn't satisfied with the treatment he received from Mead and the boxer he helped start up the ladder to fame.

Jolson failed to come east to see Armstrong battle Ross. If he refuses to come from Saratoga to attend Wednesday night's bout it will be quite apparent he has closed his book on Henry Armstrong.

Jolson has always been interested in horse racing and in boxing.

Johnny Donovan, trainer of race horses, tells me he once had a part in Jolson's show as a barlender.

"Al wanted me around so that I could find horse rooms where he could bet," said Donovan. "Jolson will place real heavy sugar on the line when he is in a betting mood."

Decision on Louis-Baer Bout

MIKE JACOBS will make his decision on a Joe Louis-Max Baer bout for September following the Armstrong-Ambers tussle.

Louis recently conferred with Jacobs in New York, and at that time agreed to box Baer in September if Mike wished to stage the bout. Baer is anxious that the tussle be held the latter part of September in New York, and promises to make amends for his sorry showing against the "Brown Bomber" when they last met.

Baer has not fought since he defeated Tommy Farr as he does not wish to risk defeat with such good prospects of getting a tussle with Louis.

A Louis-Baer bout, despite adverse publicity, will draw $400,000 to $500,000. Louis would receive 40 per cent of the gate receipts and Baer 20 per cent. It would not be necessary for the Twentieth Century Club to guarantee either boxer, and as a result the club would make money. The Milk Fund would also receive a percentage of the receipts.

BEST BET—SPEEDY LAD, TENTH

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY
First Half Daily Double
PAT ISBELL, MUZZIE, PATROL ESCORT

P.P.	Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
5	Pat Isbell	66	P. R. Stutz	5-1
1	Muzzie	56½	Art Wilson	4-1
6	Patrol Escort	66	M. T. Dubiel	5-1
3	Roundabout	62	C. Pt. Kennel	6-1
4	Lady Zena	56	O. A. B. Kennel	6-1
2	Sweet Lou	60½	W. L. Bryant	6-1
7	Traffic Lad	55	Frank Lane	8-1
8	Manderville	62	Fred Palermo	8-1

Pat Isbell has won from this box and figures to score here. Muzzie will be dangerous on the inside. Patrol Escort for what is left.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY
Second Half Daily Double
SPOOKY LADY, PAP FIELDS, FASTER OFFICER

5	Spooky Lady	65	O. A. B. Kennel	3-1
3	Pap Fields	64	M. T. Dubiel	4-1
1	Faster Officer	65	J. Highhouse	5-1
4	Miss Ruth E.	59	M. J. Gavan	5-1
8	Ben's Lady	61	L. M. K'p'rick	6-1
7	Tip Over	60	C. Pt. Kennel	6-1
2	Judge's Gal	49	Homer Bagwell	6-1
6	Mental Test	71	O. Dahlberg	8-1

Spooky Lady broke a trifle slowly last out and followed the pack around the turn, yet finished second to Jungle Jim. At most break tonight needs her home free. Pap Fields can make it close, with Faster Officer always dangerous.

THIRD RACE—5-16 MILE
DAFFY HARE, ROSANNA, NIGGER DOLL

1	Daffy Hare	55	Forbe Spencer	5-1
2	Rosanna	47	Fred Palermo	4-1
4	Nigger Doll	48½	G. H. Rogers	5-1
3	Snowdie	51	Hubert Bryant	8-1
6	Wally S.	48	Homer Bagwell	8-1
5	Classy Goer	51	P. R. Stutz	6-1
8	Citizen's State	67	O. A. B. Kennel	8-1
7	Dodge Truck	68	O. Dahlberg	8-1

The red blanket gives Daffy Hare the edge with Rosanna the chief threat. Nigger Doll can make it interesting.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY
CONNIE MACK, RESISTANCE, TEXAS SIDEWINDER

6	Connie Mack	60	John Highhouse	3-1
5	Resistance	71	O. Dahlberg	4-1
4	T.'s Sidewi'der	60	M. T. Dubiel	5-1
3	Girl Crazy	68	Jess Williams	5-1
1	Curly Collet	75	O. A. B. Kennel	6-1
2	Bookmaker	58	M. J. Gavan	6-1
8	Orlando Boy	68	J. L. Ayotte	6-1
7	Specture Crony	56	Ben Neal, Jr.	8-1

Connie Mack breaks well enough to lead this hand most of the distance but if the Resistance will take it all. Texas Sidewinder can save he show.

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE
THELMA II, UPPER CLASS, FRISCO BEBE

1	Thelma II	55	Jess Williams	5-1
7	Upper Class	70	Art Wilson	4-1
2	Frisco Bebe	51½	L. Rhine	5-1
8	Bright Beaver	64	Tom Baird	6-1
3	Mister Tickler	68	M. J. Gavan	6-1
4	Gay Hare	59	Forbe Spencer	6-1
5	Miss Della	48	P. R. Stutz	8-1
6	Patsy Red	56	P. L. Brnato	8-1

Thelma II seems worth the best, especially with the red blanket. Upper Class won its last and if it doesn't run wide will make the forcing here. Frisco Bebe rates a money call.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY
ANDREW MEADOWS—IMADY QUILL, JUNE'S LADDIE

7	Andrew Meadows	69	G. and R. Kns. 3-1
1	Imady Quill	61	W. B. Hall 4-1
3	June's Laddie	60	Homer Bagwell 5-1
2	Magic Key	68	Kirkpatrick 5-1
5	Joel Hicks	62	J. Highhouse 8-1
4	Mickey's Friend	62	M. T. Dubiel 6-1
6	Dusty Star	60	Fred Street 8-1
8	J. Breese	54	G. Lippold, Jr. 8-1

ANDREW MEADOWS should outbreak this field and make every post a winning one if R dwells IMADY QUILL will take it all. JUNE'S LADDIE should get a part.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE
KIMO—BEN'S SHADOW—MEDULLA

2	Kimo	58	John Highhouse	3-1
1	Ben's Shadow	60	M. J. Gavan	4-1
3	Medulla	60	K. Stephenson	5-1
4	Snow Down	54	P. L. Brnato	6-1
7	Lucky	50	Ben Neal, Jr.	6-1
6	Andora	54	Homer Bagwell	6-1
5	Appollo	58	G. R. Wahlund	8-1
8	Doering	63½	W. L. Bryant	8-1

KIMO has a world of foot from the gate and should lead round the turn. BEN'S SHADOW will probably do the forcing with MEDULLA in the money.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY
SIDE WIND—CALLD RAIL—JERRY HICKS

1	Side Wind	72	Jesse Williams	3-1
3	Calld Rail	67	M. C. Sparks	4-1
2	Jerry Hicks	63	John Highhouse	3-1
5	Cruiser Caress	65	C. A. Rhodes	5-1
4	Alla Fame	59	G. R. Wahlund	6-1
7	Mutton Broth	66	J. L. Ayotte	6-1
8	Latta Hare	69	Forbe Spencer	8-1
6	Irish Glen	54	Frank Lane	8-1

SIDE WIND'S last from the red hole was a sizzler and if repeated should win here. The CALLD RAIL is a mighty sharp dog right now. JERRY HICKS should be in the money.

NINTH RACE—5-16 MILE
FAWN FOX—RECORD CLIPPER PERNA

1	Fawn Fox	55	Fred Street	3-1
2	Record Clipper	60	Dan Sullivan	4-1
4	Perna	56	W. L. Bryant	3-1
3	Guiding Hand	68	Fred Palermo	5-1
5	Mj. Rogers	65	J. L. Ayotte	6-1
7	Gust Artist	61½	M. C. Sparks	6-1
8	Public Enemy	71	Dow Kennel	8-1
6	Traffic	67	Frank Lane	8-1

FAWN FOX has had sufficient rest since its recent extra circuit to score here particularly with the red blanket. RECORD CLIPPER, off its last, rates close up and PERNA might take it all.

TENTH RACE—5-16 MILE
SPEEDY LAD—RIP TERROR—TUO TONE

1	Speedy Lad	66	E. Rhine	3-1
2	Rip Terror	53	M. C. Sparks	4-1
3	Tuo Tone	64	Paul Boone	5-1
6	Ramona Breeze	60	G. Lippold, Jr.	5-1
5	Ben Lark	68	K. Stephenson	6-1
8	Josephine Glee	50	O. Dahlberg	8-1
7	Bonnie's Dream	55	Pat Conway	8-1
4	Just Chanita	53½	W. L. Bryant	8-1

The red blanket should carry SPEEDY LAD into an early lead which R should never lose. RIP TERROR may do the forcing with TUO TONE a serious threat.

Owen Anderson Shows Mettle On Rye Court

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—Owen Anderson, the young Hollywood, Cal., tennis player who went to Europe last spring, "just for the experience" and came back with a couple of trophies, a bag full of unexpected triumphs and the support of British and French experts as America's best bet as a coming Davis Cup star, may be ready to show the home folks something.

Anderson made his first Eastern start of the season at Southampton last week and bowed out in the early rounds. Yesterday, when the Eastern grass court championships got under way a day late, he went up against the veteran Johnny Van Ryn and won his first round match in straight sets, 6—4, 6—3.

Perhaps it wasn't to be expected that Van Ryn, a former Davis Cup doubles player who now appears in Eastern tournaments only when he's taking a vacation from his business at Austin, Tex., would swim. But Johnny still is a sound, stylish player, who gets plenty of depth in his drives, places his shots accurately and isn't fooled easily.

The Californian, however, had too much speed and power for him. Anderson was taking his backhand shots early and getting them back accurately and skimming his drives barely over the net. And this kind of game came off well for him, as he made few errors, although allowing himself the smallest margin of safety.

Anderson's victory took the "play" from the day's other matches as rain again interrupted activities after about half the first round women's singles matches had been played and seven had been completed in the men's singles.

Tommy Hitchcock's Arm Hurt Playing

FORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., Aug. 8 (INS)—Tommy Hitchcock had a slightly injured mallet arm today, struck by a flying ball from Steward Iglehart as the two tenegoal polo players tangled Sunday at Sands Point club. Iglehart's team, Westbury, defeated Greentree 12 to 10 in one of the season's thrillers.

Temporarily paralyzed in one arm after the ball struck his elbow, Hitchcock held up the game 15 minutes for treatment.

Ford to Box At Dilboy Ring Show

Boxing under the stars each Wednesday night at the Dilboy Field in Somerville has become such a distinct hit that Fred Russo, director of the Dilboy Post, has persuaded Richard "Ticky" Ford, who holds the William Randolph Hearst All-American crown, national amateur, New England championship—and a long string of other titles, to appear at next Wednesday night's weekly jam-session, to meet the fine 135-pounders which have all been clamoring f r a crack at "Ticky."

Jeopardizing his every crown, Ford feels that although he has been resting on his laurels as the greatest and leading 135-pound amateur in the entire nation, he is a certainty to sweep through the field of willing lightweights that will confront im.

Many of the ardent simon-pure followers, including plenty of Ford's Lawrence rooters, believe that one Dom DeCiantis, Providence lightweight sensation, who is always throwing plenty of leather from the moment of the opening bell, is just the scrapper to nip "Ticky's" summer debut before he has time to get warmed up.

There will be five classes of boxing, 126, 135, 147, 160 and heavyweight. Entries will close with Fred Russo, V. F. W., Dilboy Post, 8 Curtis street, Somerville.

Fullerton Hurls For Holy Name

Park League fans are all agog over the current semi-final series which are now being played between the two remaining clubs in East and West divisions of the league.

In the East Division Mass. Knitting Mills of Jamaica, which won the first place honors in league competition, lost to the new entry in the loop, Holy Name A. A. of West Roxbury, which finished second in league competition and gained a berth in the semi-finals by defeating the Brighton Civics two out of three games.

The church nine was not considered as a strong foe for the Knitters without the services of Pete Patrone or Curt Fullerton on the mound, but this dope was entirely upset by a youngster, Chet Sharpe, who set the Knitters back on their heels 9-4 at the Fens Stadium last Friday night.

SAINTS VS. TOWNIES

Tonight these two clubs will match wits at Fallon Field, Roslindale, before what is expected to be the largest crowd of the season.

Fullerton will be called upon to make it two straight for the Holy Namers, while Wonoski will toe the mound for the Knitters.

Still smarting from their defeat at the hands of the Roslindale Town Club at Healy Field, Bill Benson's St. Augustines will entertain the "Townies" at the South Boston Stadium this evening in the third battle of the West Division crucial series.

The Giants took the opened without much effort 6-1 at South Boston but dropped an 11-8 verdict at Healy Field Friday night. The hitting of Paul Healy, the swift little centerfielder of the "Townies," was an important cog in the "Townies" victory, coupled with Lou Strecker's stellar twirling.

Sheehan, one of the league's leading pitchers, will be assigned to the mound for the Saints while the services of Lefty Pinkham on the hill for the "Townies" should provide plenty of fireworks for the after supper fans.

ALL HAVE CHANCE

Although the St. Augustines, leaders of the West Division in league competition, and the Mass Knitting Mills, winning the East Division in league play, were considered as final combatants, the "Townies" and the Holy Namers have played remarkably well the past week, and it looks as if one of the four teams might forge ahead to the finals.

The church nine, with a game lead over the Knitters will have to take plenty of beating before the final gong.

The winners of this series will compete in the finals of four out of seven games for the city championships.

Pirates Show Effects Of Hard Campaign

By Associated Press

Note to C. McGillicuddy, Philadelphia: Why not have Mickey Cochrane come back to the Athletics? . . . He could help a lot with those young fellers of yours . . . And he's too grand a guy to be out of baseball.

If and when Don Budge turns pro, watch for Fred Perry and Ellsworth Vines to put on a holdout unless they get just as much do-re-mi as the redhead . . .

Which now looks like 75 G's . . . Heavy advance ticket sale out Ohio State way is leading folks to believe Francis Schmidt and his Bu. k-eyes are gonna go places in the Big Ten this fall . . .

When photographers want one of those hee-haw shots of Greyhound, the trotter, his trainers give him a chaw of tobacco . . . and the hee-laugh comes right out . . .

BUCCS LOOK TIRED

In spite of that double kicking around they handed the Giants yesterday, the Pirates look all tired out . . . And the front office isn't making it any easier for 'em . . . Even though the Buccs have been playing a heavy schedule the last couple of weeks, the bosses won't cancel their exhibitions . . . Even have one carded for McKeesport, Pa., tonight . . .

One reason the Red Sox are sticking up there—they've played six extra inning games this year, and won all of 'em . . . It's costing Elwood Cooke, the classy Portland tennis prospect, $1000 to stay in the Eastern net circuit this summer . . . He's one of the few making the tour at his own expense—and won't quit until he makes the Davis Cup squad . . .

Notice Swinging Sammy Chapman, whose batting average slid from high in the .300's to about .270, is riding the bench for the A's now . . . There oughta be a contest to find out why Joe DiMaggio's hitting is 10 to 20 points heavier on the road than in the Yankee Stadium home grounds this season . . .

MICKEY WRITING BOOK

Mickey Cochrane is writing a book on the hows and whys of baseball . . . But he (and about a million other guys) still don't know why the Tigers let him out. The Washington Redskins signed Irv Gilbreath, ex-Texas pigskinner, because Sammy Baugh recommended him . . .

Charley Gehringer follows Lou Gehrig into that cereal company's "All-American" popularity baseball team . . . Incidentally, did you know the Tigers "strong, silent man," who'd rather show you his watch than tell you the time, once won a speech-making contest . . .

The Cardinals have their eye on young Morton Cooper, who's gone through a stretch of four games with Houston allowing just one run and 13 hots . . . But the kid, who hails from Independence, Mo., is so homesick, he has to have his brother on the club with him.

Pitchers

Liberal Out West

PONCA CITY, Okla., Aug. 8 (AP)—Pitcher Alex Swails of Muskogee feared he held a world record today.

Alex walked 32 Ponca City Angels in a nine-inning Western Association baseball game.

Contributing to what sport writers believed was another record, Pitcher Hugh Kittle of Ponca City walked 11 batters for a total of 43 free trips to first in the game.

Swails distributed his walks so well—he never gave more than five an inning—that he left 22 Angels stranded, 21 of them in the first seven innings. He allowed seven hits.

Alex, a good-natured rookie, got a bigger kick from his three-run homer than from his base on balls record. The homer helped Muskogee tie the score at seven-all in the seventh, but in the same inning Ponca scored five runs for a 12-7 victory.
